

PB&J SOCIETY Rules

- #1 Thou shalt bury all smushed peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, which are unfit to eat, in the secret cemetery.
- #2 Thou shalt not speak during the ceremony, except the official sermon.
- #3 Thou shalt spit on the sandwich to give it a taste of what it would have experienced if tragedy hadn't struck.
- #4 Thou shalt sing the mourning song after the sandwich is buried.
- #5 If an emergency shall arise, thou shalt call a time out to allow speaking.
- #6 Thou shalt not bury any sandwich with any non-peanut butter and jelly growths in the cemetery.
- #7 No PB&J burials shall take place unless both members of the Society are present.
- #8 If more than three PB&Js require burial at the same time, a mass burial shall be performed. Instead of holding each sandwich to spit upon, thou shalt line them up on the ground, and both members shall perform a rapid-fire spit salute (one spit for each sandwich).
- #9 Thou shalt bury a perfect peanut butter and jelly sandwich if either of the two founding members moves away. It shall be called the sacrificial sandwich.
- #10 A sacrificial sandwich may be offered up to individuals in order to show respect or appreciation.